THE second day's performance at the Cincinnati May musical festival is pronounced by telegrams simply perfect. The audience was "tremendous," and it took ten minutes to work off the bravos and applause after the execution of each of the numbers. The orchestra, soloists and chorus were equally honored with the most demonstrative approbations. Cincinnati, we congratulate you.

A BOLD BURGLAR,

Burgiary and Assault with Intent to Kill at Holly Springs.

Holly Springs (Miss.) South, 15th: On Wednesday night last, when Mr. William Jones, our efficient city marshal, had gone to dwelling, and was waiting for his supper, ne heard a noise in a back room of his house which attracted his attention as unusual and suspicious. He had laid down his usual weapons, but called one of his family to bring hem to him, and, without waiting to receive nything, went to the adjacent room only to find a burglar, crouching in a corner of the room, who had broken into the house, and who met him promptly with a pistol-shot through nis left ear. He advanced, nevertheless, and n a scuffle which ensued was again shot through the hand, the ball striking the abdomen and raising a considerable contusion, but ortunately not entering his person. His esfrom death was a very narrow one ined, and probably due to the bullet striking a outton of his vest, after passing through hi and. But, unarmed as he was, and in the dark, being hardly able to see his antagonist, ne persisted nevertheless, so that the rascal was glad to escape, leaving his hat and pistol ind him. Certain circumstances are likely to lead to an arrest of the right man, who was of smail size and not white. The marshal deserves the highest possible praise or his energy and pluck. We believe it is the first time he has been caught unprepared and we hope it will be the last. A little ones lynch, administered on that occasion as near the heart of the villain as possible would have been as good a remedy for the lisease under which he was laboring as a dose of Mrs. Winslow's soothing syrup for a

The principal feature noted s the extraordinary and unprecedented rapidity of growth at this early date. In the House. Washington, May 15.—At the opening of the house this morning there was an unusually small attendance of members on either sually small attendance of members on either side of the chamber, indicating that the expected marshaling of the Democratic forces was not yet complete. As soon as the reading of yesterday's journal was concluded the question was raised whether the senate resolution for the final adjournment of the session was not a question of higher privilege than the pending question of Mr. Potter's resolution.

Mr. Hale suggested that it was a matter to be decided by the house.

The speaker, in reply to Mr. Wood, gave it as his opinion that the question of final adjournment was a question of privilege between the two houses, somewhat analogous "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the paragraph relating to soaps the words, "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the paragraph relating to soaps the words, "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the paragraph relating to soaps the words, "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the paragraph relating to soaps the words, "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the paragraph relating to soaps the words, "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the paragraph relating to soaps the words, "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the paragraph relating to soaps the words, "Castile soap thirty-five per cent. ad valored with the per cent." tween the two houses, somewhat analogous to a report of a conference committee, which had always been held to be a question of the highest privilege, taking precedence even of a motion to adjourn. Mr. Wood said if the house desired it, and if there was no objection, he would state his reasons very briefly. Calls for the regular order from the Democratic side. "Then," said Mr. Wood, "I must insist on the previous question."

The question recurred on seconding the demand for the previous question, and the Republicans refraining from voting, and the emocrats being unable to muster more than one hundred and twenty, the house was again left without a quorum. Mr. Caldwell rose to a question of order,

ROBBERY IN ARKANSAS.

Two Robbers Enter a House Near Searcy, and Compel the Owner to Give up his Money.

Searcy Record: On Saturday last two men, named Mason and Davis, robbed about sixteen miles southwest of Sear-cy, near Des Arc creek, of about one hundred and sixty dollars. We learn that the two supposed thieves had a short time before been living on the place, but had removed their families to a place near Little Rock. A few days before the robbery they had come back into the neighborhood, bringing a wagon with them, which they had sold to one of their old neighbors. The wagon proved to have been stolen. Having learned that Mr. Moy had quite a snug sum of money in his possession, the men resolved to have it, and on Saturday went to his house, and finding Mrs. Moy alone, threw her on the floor and commenced beating her, at the same time threatening to kill her unless she told the commenced beating her, at the same time threatening to kill her unless she told the commenced beating her, at the same time threatening to kill her unless she told the commenced beating her, at the same time resolutions of letter from the cratic side have the hidden and deep purpose to overthrow the present administration, while the result might lead to a revolution in the country. Mr. Moy, hearing the noise, came into the house, and one of the party drawing his pistol, told him that unless the money was given up he would kill them both, whereupon Mr. Moy went to the drawer where the money was and handed it over. The thieves then left, and at night stole a horse and made for the swamps on White river. GENERAL ORD AFTER THE RAIDERS. The war department is informed that General Ord has, in a general order, reissued the existing orders about Mexican raiders, and district commanders are instructed that they nust adhere to them strictly while there is an acknowledged government in the exercise of power in the territory in which the raiders take refuge, but that if such territory is al-ternately held by rival factions at war with each other, and there is no responsible government in control, pursuing parties can take the shortest routes to the places of refuge of raiding or invading bands, and treat the populations that defend them as if they were raiders. Similar instructions were issued by General Ord during the revolution of 1876, as necessary to protect Americans from the plundering bands that infested the whole opposite bank of the river.

After sweeping her brilliant eyes around the horizon of her dominion, they fell upon Prince Jack Proudfit, Grand Duke of Lunchdom, with whom she immediately became infatuated, and proclaimed him her legal lord, the king. He approached the throne, his face reddening with pride and triumph, and with many graceful intentions, faced the admiring multitude. The words that he fully wanted to say, from the bottom of his heart, were not forthcoming as rapidly and fluently as those of our silvertongued queen, but his ideas, no doubt, were brilliant, and had he been allowed time to complete the content of the content Mollie M'Carty and Tenbroeck are expected daily. We remarked the situation to a friend, and he gallantly responded that he felt as if he was in a bee-hive, with honey all around him. We wanted to bet him a street-car ticket that none of it would adhere to him, but the stupendous magnitude of the stakes confused him, and he quietly subsided. At ten o'clock the shrill whistle was heard. Screams of laughter filled the car, handkerchiefs were waved from the windows, and we were soon speeding away from the dust and tur-

This we soon accomplished from ample material found in the forest groves, and a stately pile towered its majestic head pre-eminently above the surroundings.
